

About the Online Programme

The pandemic has really altered the way in which education is provided. The teacher-taught relations have undergone a sea change with the new online methods of teaching and learning through live lectures and e-content taking the center stage. These are challenging times for teachers as they are expected to be well versed in the new forms of knowing and imparting knowledge. They have adapted and are still acclimatizing to the new environments. They need to sharpen their skills with reference to online courses, e-content development and open resources. With this in mind and with the recent mandate of the UGC for conducting online courses for teachers the UGC-HRDC at the University of Allahabad, Prayagraj is organizing this Online Programme.
